

COOLIDGE EXPLAINS HIS BRIEF MESSAGE ABOUT RE-ELECTION

Deliberate Thought Went Into Phrasing of Terse
Statement

CAME AS A SURPRISE

Politicians Believe President Has Read Himself Out Of Race With Finality

By George E. Durno
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 4.—He meant it.

When Calvin Coolidge dramatically and unexpectedly announced he "did not choose to run" for re-election, it was for the sincere purpose of delicately eliminating himself from the 1928 presidential race.

Out of a 48 hour welter of speculation and rumor which followed the President's most unusual move, this at last became apparent today.

Explanation of the reason for employing the phrase "do not choose to run" rather than "will not run" did much to clear up the situation. The expression was not as suggested in some quarters, a New England colloquialism upon which Mr. Coolidge absent-mindedly hit; neither was it meant as a joke. Deliberate thought went into the phrasing of the terse statement which effaced the President from the coming campaign for he wished to convey a particular meaning. Herewith the explanation:

It was shortly before the hour of noon, at which time the startling announcement was to be precipitated on an unexpected public. Mr. Coolidge called in a trusted assistant, who had had no inkling of the nature of the impending statement. The President casually suggested that the special press conference then about to assemble might be a good medium through which to declare his intention not to stand for re-election. After the assistant had recovered partially from his surprise and dismay, there was a brief discussion of the phraseology the announcement should take. "I will not be a candidate for President in 1928" was considered, but cast aside by the executive. He wanted to convey to the public the idea that he was rejecting a great honor which had actually been offered him informally, and which he knew could have been his for the asking.

"Do not choose" was decided upon finally as the best word medium to express such a thought in a one-line statement, it was explained today. Mr.
Coolidge wanted the impression given that after mature deliberation he had declined an opportunity to succeed himself, rather than that he had decided not to strive for it.

And now that the first excitement is over, and a breathing spell has afforded second wind, the great majority of politicians also are of the belief that President Coolidge has read himself out of the race with finality.

Don't Try To Beat The Traffic Light

"Don't try to beat the traffic light," is advice given to motorists by Captain Anthony Landers, of the Keystone Automobile Club's road patrol. Captain Landers, in a statement today said that a new highway menace has developed with the extension of the automatic traffic light system throughout the State.

"Drivers who ordinarily are cautious and considerate in operation of their cars seem to lose all sense of safety perspective when they approach a traffic light showing the green signal," said Captain Landers. "To cross the intersection before the light changes seems to be an uncontrollable obsession with numerous drivers and they dash across streets without regard to their own safety or the safety of others."

"Very few drivers ever pass the red signal. With the red against them they are content to stop and wait for the change, but in a majority of instances observed by the road patrol drivers seem unwilling to approach cautiously when the signal is green."

"The twin of the 'signal beater' is the driver who, stopped for the red, dashes madly forward as soon as the signal changes. He seems to think he's in a race and that the last faint glance of amber is the starter's gun. Frequently the twins come together, or if they don't they come into violent contact with pedestrians."

"The only answer is cautious driving. Life is too short at best to endanger it by reckless hurry at intersections."

Commissioners Award Contract For Bridges

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 4.—At the meeting of the Bucks County Commissioners Tuesday, John S. Baily and Brother, local contractors, were awarded the contract to rebuild and add sidewalks to the arch stone bridge in Sellersville at a cost of $10,389.
Two other bids were received, including M. Fred McPeck, Riegelsville, $10,550 and Knox Mariani Company, Ardmore, $11,401.

The contract for rebuilding No. 190 in Springfield township near the Northampton County line, was awarded to Sizafous & Poore, of Riegelsville, for $19,145. Other bids submitted included M. Fred McPeck, Riegelsville, $24,295.50, and Knox Mariani Company, Ardmore, $26,547.70.

The polling place in Warminster township was changed from Daeger's Hotel to the new public school building.

A petition was presented to the Commissioners by the supervisors of Milford township asking for state aid in the erection of a little less than two miles of road from Rosedale to Steinsburg, a road that connects the Bethlehem pike with the county road at Steinsburg.

There were 117 bills passed amounting to $43,525.24.

NEW DETOUR MARKERS ADOPTED BY STATE

Number of State Route Will Be Carried
Hereafter

OTHER STATE NEWS

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 4 (I.N.S.) —A new system of markers to guide travelers over detours and temporary routes during the construction season has been inaugurated, officials of the Highways Department today announced. The system was adopted to prevent temporary routes being mistaken for the standard routes.

Instead of occasional stickers bearing directions the new signs will carry the standard number of the route and the word "detour" in large block letters.

The word "detour" in the future will indicate that the autoist is passing over a county, township or borough highway and not a regular State road system.

"Temporary" used in connection with a standard route number will mean that traffic is being diverted from a regular route and passing over another State Highway which for the time is being used.

These special markers will generally appear on sign posts. They cannot, then, be confused with the permanent road markers.

When more than one route number appears on a stretch of highway, it means that both of the established routes or trails use this highway for some distance. Markers will show the traveler where the routes separate again.

COLETSBURG, Pa., Aug. 4 (I.N.S.) —Cross Fork, in lower Potter County, is planning a "comeback."

The town, which has dwindled from 4,000 to less than 100 persons with the passing of the lumber industry in that vicinity, made its first strenuous efforts to bring industries and enterprises to Cross Fork when it staged an old home week, which attracted thousands of former residents and their friends.

Situated in the heart of the Black Forest, the vicinity abounds in bass and trout, elk, deer and bear, and Cross Fork boosters hope that hunters, attracted by game, may be "sold" on the locality for business. The state maintains a camping site nearby, also.
As the lumber industry waned, the town's prosperity went with it, many of the residents having their houses torn down and shipped out of the community.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4 (I.N.S.) —Insanity is steadily increasing today among business and professional men until it has reached a point where medical men have been forced to launch a stubborn fight against the malady, Dr. Hubley R. Owen, noted police and fire surgeon, says.

"Unless more drastic steps are taken soon to combat this new danger," Dr.
Owen asserts, "it will become as great a menace as cancer and other insidious diseases."

"We are constantly working with nerves keyed to the highest pitch, and unless there is a certain amount of relaxation, a heavy toll is exacted," he says.

"This toll takes the form of insanity and so great is the toll that laymen are astounded by the amazing inroads made by this disease in the past few years."

This is one of the great problems facing the medical profession today, he asserted. Dr. Owen urged the business men to take more exercise and relax more often as a preventative.

his hands. With the tying run on second, Tullio fanned Kohler and Fine, ending the game.

The "Saints" won in the fourth inning on Gilardi's walk. Fields' sacrifice, Paletta's and Avella's hits, Tullio's sacrifice and errors by Deirich and Hibbs.

Seven Million Pounds Of Rare Old Tobacco Purchased By Lorillard

A purchase which is considered a rare stroke has just been made by P. Lorillard Company. It was for approximately seven million pounds of the choicest and finest old southern bright tobaccos, aged for three years.

This large purchase will enable P.
Lorillard Company to round out the production of fifteen billions of Old Gold cigarettes.

The tobacco was bought from the British-American Tobacco Company and indicates very friendly relations between these two companies.

STILL CONSIDER MOVE TO SAVE SACCO-VANZETTI

Three Legal Steps Are Under Consideration, It Is Said

AWAIT FATE ON AUG. 10

BOSTON, Aug. 4 (I.N.S.)—While Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, behind the grim death house bars in State's Prison, were steeling themselves to hear today the momentous news that Governor Alvan T. Fuller, after a review of their celebrated case, had found them "guilty," members of the Sacco-Vanzetti Committee were meeting to outline a campaign for a "last ditch" legal fight to save the doomed men from the electric chair on August 10th.

It was said unofficially, that three legal moves were under consideration —an appeal to the State Courts on the ground of "new evidence discovered in the Fuller review" an appeal to the Federal District Court on the ground that the men did not have a fair trial and an appeal to the United States Supreme Court on the basis that the defendants' constitutional rights had been violated.

Governor Fuller in his 2500-word decision, refusing executive intervention, found that the men had a fair trial, that there was no undue prejudice by Trial Judge Webster Thayer, that Vanzetti was guilty of a hold-up in Bridgewater prior to the slaying in Braintree of Paymaster Frederick A.
Parmenter and Alessandro Berardelli, that the jury in the double slaying did its duty and that the statement of Celestino Madeiros, bank cashier slayer, implicating a Providence, R. I., gang in the South Braintree affair, carried no weight.

The chief executive stated flatly that the final decision and responsibility were his but, that his advisory committee arrived at the same conclusion as did he.

The committee—President A. Lawrence Lowell, of Harvard, President Samuel W. Stratton, of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Former Judge Robert Grant—were congratulated for their "unselfish service on this disagreeable and extremely important problem."

Terming the Governor's decision "unbelievably brutal in its partisanship and even more brutal in the omission of facts," a statement made public today by the Sacco-Vanzetti Defense Committee said:

"The days separating Sacco and Vanzetti from the electric chair are few, but this defense committee will continue to fight for justice for these two men. Our faith in their innocence is unshaken. We call upon the millions of people throughout the world, who have supported them, to come forward and join us in this last desperate effort to stay the hand of the judicial hangman."

The committee in seven years has spent $225,000 on the defense of Sacco and Vanzetti, claiming that they were Pedro and also was felt at Pasadena and on Santa Catalina Island.

BRACKEN POST MEMBERS LEAVING FOR CONVENTION

Box Car and Bugle Corps To Be Features of Local Group

PARADE ON SATURDAY

Members of Robert W. Bracken Post No. 382, American Legion, are hourly leaving for York where the big state convention opens today. There will be a monster parade on Saturday and it is in this that the Bristol boys expect to play a big part.

The box car of Bracken Post left today. It has been given a new coat of red paint and across the back is the wording "On Two York." "The most beautiful car in America? Blah."

Bucks County will be well represented at the convention as there are other posts going beside Bristol.
There will be two drum corps in line from Bucks County. The Bristol post, in addition to the Doylestown Post will have two snappy outfits competing for honors.

Account Parade Day of the American Legion at York on Saturday, the Pennsylvania Railroad has arranged a special train for the Legionnaires, their families and friends.

This train will leave Broad Street Station at 7 a. m., eastern standard time, making stop at West Philadelphia 7.05 a. m. and arriving at York at 9.55 a. m. Returning, this train will leave York at 8.10 p. m., eastern standard time, stopping at West Philadelphia and arriving Broad Street Station at 10.45 p. m.

Reduced rate tickets granted to Legionnaires and their families, and all other forms of tickets good for passage to York, will be accepted on this train.

The one way fare, Bristol to York via this train is $4.25; and on the Convention basis, upon presentation of proper certificate, the round trip to Legion members and their families will be $6.38.

Eastburn, Blanche & Hardy Now In Remodeled Quarters

Eastburn, Blanche & Hardy, well-known Bristol firm, is now occupying its remodeled headquarters at 115 Mill street.

During the period of remodeling the realtors conducted their affairs in the structure at No. 6 Mill street.

The Eastburn building, as remodeled, presents a splendid appearance with the front portion of the first floor finished in sandstone; the second and third floors being of brick in corresponding colors. A large general office and lobby are located at the front of the first floor; and two private offices are in the rear.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has a suite of offices on the second floor, while the third floor is occupied by two apartments.

TO BEGIN SURVEYING RADCLIFFE STREET SOON

State Will Probably Begin Work Here on Monday
Next

COMPLETED THIS FALL

It is announced that the State expects to begin making surveys and prepare drawings for rebuilding with concrete that section of Radcliffe street, extending from Adams Hollow Creek to the borough line and from there to the intersection of the concrete highway known as Route 32 or Pond street, about Monday next.

After the surveys have been made and the drawings completed then the bids will be advertised for and work started as soon thereafter as possible.

With this announcement indications are that the work is to be started within the very near future and completed before winter. This will be welcome news to not only the residents along that section of Radcliffe street, but to the traveling public, as well.

With the completion of this section of roadway, part of which is in Bristol Borough and part in Bristol Township, this borough will have made great advancement in obtaining modernly improved highways, and probably ranks first among towns of comparable size in the matter of improved streets.

Piggery Owner Given A Hearing By Justice

Louis Mark, a Philadelphia contractor, was given a hearing before Justice Kraft Tuesday on the charge of maintaining a nuisance at the piggery on his farm on the Street Road below Trevoose.

The information was lodged by Anthony Russo, the state health officer, at the instigation of Dr. Charles W. Many, Doylestown, the county medical director. Mr. Mark has maintained a piggery at this place for a number of years and for some time it has been tenanted by a Mr. Campo.

During the hearing it was revealed that Mr. Mark had been in communication with Mr. Campo from time to time for a period of about a year, regarding the nuisance, but that the defendant had paid no attention to the matter.
The defense intimated that the responsibility should be placed upon the tenant, Mr. Campo, but Dr. Many maintained that Mr. Mark should be held responsible.

Testimony at the hearing revealed that between 500 and 600 pigs are kept on the farm and that a large amount of unconsumed garbage, manure and decomposed organic matter has been left on the ground. It was also revealed that a number of cess pools are overflowing. Offensive odors are also to be found for a long distance along Street Road.

Mr. Hall, business manager of the Friends' Hospital, near Frankford, and Mr. Keebler, superintendent of the Friends' home which is near the Mark farm, testified to the unsanitary conditions.

The hearing was continued for two weeks, but counsel for the defense intimated that the nuisance would be abated. The Commonwealth was represented by Howard I. James.

LOCAL FIRM TO BUILD PASSENGER PLANE IN BRISTOL

Keystone Aircraft Company Agrees To Complete Job
In Sixty Days

TO HAVE 3 MOTORS

Plane Will Be Named The Keystone "Silver Winged Transport"

The first system of aerial transportation for passengers, mail and express matter in the West Indies will begin operation on October 1st, announced H. M. Hansard, vice-president of the West Indian Aerial Express of Santo Domingo. The interview was made public at the New York City office of the Keystone Aircraft Company at 475 Fifth Avenue yesterday.

"The first plane to be used on this line was ordered on Saturday from the Keystone Aircraft Company at Bristol, Pa., and will be completed in the record time of 60 days. It is to be known as the Keystone "Silver Winged Transport," and is the latest development in large commercial passenger carrying planes. It has accommodations for ten passengers and baggage with compartments for mail and express matter."

"The 'Santa Maria' will be equipped with three of the latest type Wright 'Whirlwind' 225 H. P. air-cooled engines similar to the ones used by Commander Byrd, Colonel Lindbergh, and the other trans-atlantic flyers.
It will have a high speed of 112 m. p. h. with a range of 600 miles and will weigh when fully loaded 10,841 pounds.
The low speed is 57 miles an hour and the weight empty 6,356 pounds. It will be capable of flying on any two of its motors," said Edgar N. Gott, president of Keystone Aircraft Company.

"Owing to the lack of adequate boat service between Cuba, Santo Domingo, Haiti and Porto Rico, business men and travelers have been forced to come north and use the largest steamship lines from New York in order to travel between Cuba and Porto Rico. The steamboat service offers transportation but once a month between San Juan, Porto Rico and Santo Domingo City and consumes about 96 hours en route. This trip may be made twice a week by plane and will take only four hours, the distance being 250 miles."

"The railroad service between Santo Domingo City to Port-au-Prince, Haiti, consumes practically an entire day, whereas the distance of 160 miles will be covered by plane in two hours," said H. M. Hansard, vice-president of West Indian Aerial Express.

The route will continue from Port-au-Prince to Santiago de Cuba, over 270 miles, and will be made in approximately four hours. Thus with aerial transportation it will be possible to connect San Juan, Porto Rico, with Santiago de Cuba with a ten-hour airial service operating twice a week.
At the present time there is but one complete trip made by boat between these two points every month and the traveling time takes six days.

"The price of aerial transportation will compare favorably with steamboat fares between islands. Two round-trips will be made weekly between Santiago de Cuba and San Juan, Porto Rico, with stops at Port-au-Prince, Haiti, and Santo Domingo City. C. X. for passengers, freight and mail. The distances between stops are small, averaging 223 miles."

"Within the next six months this service will be extended to Havana, Cuba, to connect with the U. S. Air Mail Route operating from New York City to Key West, Florida, and Havana, Cuba. This will make an approximate twenty-four hour mail service between New York City and San Juan, Porto Rico," said Hansard.

The organization of the West Indian Aerial Express was made possible through the co-operation of the sugar planters of Santo Domingo who subscribed to the fund for the establishment of this initial service. At the same time Santo Domingo set aside 2500 acres of land for an international park and airport and voted $300,0

"HIT AND RUN" DRIVERS

There is a certain question put to each applicant for a driver's license in the state of Pennsylvania as the time arrives for their test. It is relative as to what should be done when the operator of an automobile is involved in an accident. The reply should be: "Stop and render assistance if needed, and leave one's name and address."

The two recent "hit-and-run" cases in this vicinity have made many stop to think. It can never be definitely proved just who was in the right or who in the wrong in either case, but the fact remains that one party in each case did not have enough manhood about him or sufficient amount of consideration for his fellowman to do what any clear-thinking individual with feeling would have done.

The first accident occurred late one evening last week. A man, the father of several small children, who resided in Cornwells Heights, had stayed at his employment until an exceptionally late hour. Not caring to stand still until a trolley arrived he and a fellow-workman commenced to walk toward their home-town. A short distance had been traversed when a machine being driven at a very high rate of speed raced down the thoroughfare, knocking the one on the outside to the ground.

No halt was made by the motorist, but the mad flight continued in the direction of Philadelphia. When an examination was made at a hospital here, it was found the two bones of the right leg were fractured, and other injuries were sustained. The victim will be incapacitated for some time, his work must cease for the time being, no recompense will be made by the other party because the name of the driver is not known and several small children must be taken care of in the meantime.

The scene of the second accident was below town on the Bristol Pike. Here on Sunday morning the prone form of an Andalusia resident was found by passing autoists. The injured had evidently been dragged by those whose machine struck him into the middle of the road. There he was left until those having consideration for others' feelings and needs should pass.

Many cuts and bruises were found on his body and there is to be paid bills for services rendered by a hospital and doctors. At the home of this man, who proved to be a widower, there awaited him his little girl.

Laws help solve many problems, but the one of the "hit-and-run" driver is a hard one to cope with. Most of his victims are injured at night, probably due to the fact that a get-away is not an easy thing in the daytime, due to the number of passersby. Then, too, the difficulty experienced in distinguishing forms until a driver is on top of the individuals may contribute to the number of those struck.

But all this should have nothing to do with the fact that when one comes in contact with a machine or strikes an individual the driver should bring his vehicle to a stop. He knows when he has hit someone—and he should not stop merely because there is a law saying he should, but each one worthy of the name of human-being and capable of driving a motor-driven vehicle, should have instilled well in his mind the answer to the question "Am I my brother's keeper?"

What Every Girl Should Know

by GISA PRUCHONE

Copyright, 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. "WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW," with Patsy Ruth Miller, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Mary Sullivan—slender, beautiful, red-headed—is an orphan. Wally Mason, a young reporter, loves Mary. But she disbelieves in love. Mary's elder brother, David, is sentenced to prison for an auto fatality. The Charity Department takes Bobby, the younger, Mary gets a job in a night club. It is raided. Mary, judged to have criminal influences, is sentenced to a reform school. She runs away to visit Bobby, who is ill. Arthur Graham, rich young man involved in David's conviction, takes her and Bobby to live with him; and proposes to her.

"Shall we take a walk, Mary?"

"Yes."

Arthur Graham took her hand and led her out to the garden path, a path splattered with the dust of the stars, of which there were millions. There was a silver haze in the velvet of the heavens. The trees rustled with the whisper of countless messages. "It's perfect—it's perfect," said Mary, and her hand held Arthur's tightly. There was an ache in her throat because she wanted to cry with the beauty of it.

Arthur's voice came to her through the brush of the night upon her cheek. "Is everything perfect, Mary?"

"Everything."

They strolled the length of the walk and turned. Is everything perfect, Mary? No, nothing is perfect, Arthur. There is David to whom the delight of this night is denied—and—and—well that is all. He folded her hand over his arm.

"Mary dear—"

"Yes?" She lifted the little pointed face with the fringe of hair that lay like a gloss on her forehead.

"I want you to know—that I love you."

"Just in time, mother!" He enfolded her in a great hug.

you. I ask you to become my wife."

Somewhere there was pain in that. It quickened her breath and jerked her heart from its customary groove. Her fingers tightened on the muscle of his arm and she could feel the hardness beneath. Strength. It emanated from him, and yet—was that what she wanted? These last few weeks at the house on the hill had soothed and poured balm into the spirit that had been torn ragged. There was no longer that burning need of aid, an aid that could not be dug up by the feebleness of her hands. Now there lay peace in her heart, its wings folded, prepared to remain, and there was no longer the need for strength—any strength that would lift her from the chasms. And that had been Arthur's fascination for the girl whose life had been a matter of tennis balls. Tennis balls that her mother had sewn and she had batted against the wind. Arthur was a life of gracious gestures. Beautiful gestures that came from a spirit that longed for solace. Any solace. The healing balm of gratitude perhaps. So beautiful, a life that is capable of gestures. And Arthur's had been that. If she married Arthur her life would take on a still, far freedom, a freedom from rocks and chasms and the canyons that yawn deep for those who would walk the high places with no silver for their shoes. And she longed for the altitudes. Longed for them with an intensity which her slip into the road had merely heightened. Love? What is love? Service that dragged at you. There would be no need for service with Arthur. Arthur of the grand gestures could fling his gold to the winds did he desire that. With Arthur she would have the opportunity for which she longed. Freedom for her tennis, power for David and young Robert. What more did life hold that could not be bought with the sweep of gold dust? She would marry him, not for service, nor for the urge of passion, but for the independence of her spirit. And this would be the perfection of the marital state, for Arthur could give her that.

"Dear!" The question was a breath on the cheek air.

She hesitated. Then—

"Yes, Arthur," and hid her head against his arm where sudden shyness placed it.

"Now everything is perfect, Mary," he chuckled in a sudden blaze of spirit. "Now everything is perfect, you blessed child," and took her in his arms. There was tenderness there. Her body straightened with the shock of it as she felt the power of his arms enfolding her. She had an insane desire to break loose and run, which was absurd upon contemplation. Her heart beat fast with overpowering relief at the interruption. He had not kissed her.

"Arthur." It was Mollie who had moved over the fuzz of the grass unheard.

"Just in time, mother!" He laughed boyishly and enfolded her in a great hug. "Arthur! Let me down!"

"Not until you kiss me, mother!"

"What is it, you great booby, you," thought she knew.

"I'm engaged!"

"My heart, Arthur! My heart!"

"Ideas your heart, mother! It's beating with joy!"

"Oh, Arthur! And Bernice not yet cold in the ground!"

He sobbed. "Look here, mother, I loved Bernice—and all that—but she's gone—and I'm here—and Mary is here too." He drew her into his embrace. "We won't announce the engagement yet. Mother—Mary—" he pushed Mary gently toward Mollie. "Be pale, because you both love me," and Mollie had the grace to plant a kiss on Mary's forehead, then turned and left them.

CHAPTER XIV

B. Jasper Graham grunted.

"Well—well—well—out with it!" although he knew too. There was the enjoyment of watching Arthur turn a deep red, though Arthur with the sober swell of Graham jaw, and the little lines that forked from the corners of his eyes.

"Glad to hear it," said B. Jasper.

"Glad to hear it. Let me kiss the bride," which he did. "Told your mother, boy?"

Yes, mother knew. "Gad, father, you're the truest!"

"Spare me. Spare me," old Jasper twinkled. He turned to Mary, who had been standing in the light of the reading lamp, waiting for this bit of intimacy to have done. There was something fine about old B. Jasper, Mary thought. Arthur would be that way some day. Taciturn, probably, and crusty, but with the gold of his purse turning his heart mellow.

"Well now, Mary, what about an engagement gift, eh?"

"It would be very nice," she dimpled.

"It would, hey? It would, hey? Name it, girl, and it's yours!"

She would ask for silver-tipped shoes—but Arthur was giving her those—

"There is nothing—"

"Nothing, Mary? Come, come—a pretty dilly—"

"I should like," said Mary, and the thought of David swept across her face leaving it a bit wan. "I should like to see David—and tell him—"

B. Jasper frowned. "You'll see him. You'll see him soon enough. An engagement gift, Mary?"

"That is what I should like," said Mary soberly.

"Well—well," it was disappointing to tell it to her now, but if she would prefer that above everything else she should have it, the pretty little dilly with the hair that swung.

Arthur could no longer contain the news. "We've been planning that for some weeks now, dear. Father is using his influence to have David freed."

"Mary!" He caught her where she staggered.

"Now, now, Mary, what's all this?"

"I'm all right," said Mary weakly. "It was a bit sudden—you'll admit it was sudden? Oh dear," she pushed the hair from her forehead with her free hand.

Arthur, anxiously as he bent to peer into her face, "You're all right, dear?"

"Of course—of course—and if I'm not, it's just happiness! Oh, Arthur!" She put her handkerchief to her face and came to lean it against Jasper's breast, while he stroked her hair, muttering, "Now—now—a pretty little dilly like you—"

"This is perfectly ridiculous, and I'm ashamed of myself," sobbed Mary against B. Jasper, "but I'm so happy!"

"Shouldn't have thrown it at her that way, Dad."

"She's all right, boy. Eh, Mary?"

"Perfectly," and after wiping the tears from her cheeks and eyes she turned a radiant face to both men, though the tears welled again and raced unheeded down the course of her cheeks.

MUCH SCENERY FOUND IN STATE

President Richard C. Haldeman of Pennsylvania Motor Federation has outlined another Pennsylvania tour calculated to prove to Pennsylvanians that no other State in the Union has as matchless scenery and highways as the Keystone State.

"There is no reason why Pennsylvanians should go beyond their own borders in search of scenery," said Mr. Haldeman, "because, as Kipling said in his famous poem, 'It is all in Pennsylvania this morning.'"

Mr. Haldeman outlines a long and two short drives. The map shows three loops. The distance around the large loop is approximately 720 miles; around the smaller ones 190 miles each.

"This drive will show Pennsylvania at its best," said Mr. Haldeman, "but so do many others. The traveler will find every variety of scenery—from mountains and woodland to beautiful rivers and lakes. He will pass through industrial and agricultural regions; and his route will carry him to many summer playgrounds. At least one recently completed highway is included—that from Mount Union through Mc-Connellsburg to Mercersburg, Hagerstown and Washington. The section lying in Pennsylvania has been named the James Buchanan Trail.

"We have 'spotted' on the map the names of numerous towns and cities not included in the tour, but within easy driving range—and all connected with the tour itself by durable, all-weather highways.

"I call particular attention to the celebrated 'Coudersport pike,' an earth road, but passing through country as wild as will be found in Wyoming or other Western states. Originally opened about 1810, this road gradually fell into disuse, and when the State Highway department decided to reopen it in 1914 saplings and underbrush had closed it so that progress with a horse and buggy was almost impossible. Between Sweden Valley and Waterville, north of Jersey Shore, only half a dozen human habitations will be found.

"Except for the Coudersport pike, all the highways shown in the present tour are durably improved—and improved as only Pennsylvania knows how to improve roads."

State News

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 4 (I.N.S.)—Farmers who expect heavy crops this fall should plan now for successful marketing, the State Department of Markets warned today. The course of successful business organizations which plan for sale of their products years ahead was cited as an example for Pennsylvania farmers.

"What plans to make depends upon the sale," the bureau explains. "If direct selling to consumers is followed, plans for keeping regular customers informed and for securing new customers is worth considering. When advertising space is to be used, it is well to be thinking about the papers which will be selected, and the nature of the statement to be carried."

Why are there so many charming women today?

Never before have there been so many charming women. Wherever you go, you find them. Vivacious, happy, beautiful, delightfully dressed in the most exquisite taste.

Clear, pink-and-white complexion, luxurious, well-kept hair, gleaming teeth, trim athletic carriage — these are almost universal characteristics of American women of today.

Why?

At first thought it may sound absurd, but one of the most powerful teachers has been advertising.

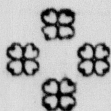

Advertising has helped to teach us all that the real basis of beauty is health and cleanliness. We are the greatest users of soap and water in the world.

Advertising has taught us how to care for our teeth, our hair, our feet, our hands and our complexions.

Advertising has taught us how to dress—how to choose colors and fabrics and becoming styles.

Advertising has taught us how to talk, how to entertain.

One reason why so many women are charming is because so many women are reading advertising. From advertising they are learning the secrets of great beauty specialists. They are getting health information of inestimable value. They are learning the secrets of becoming dress from the famous designers of Paris and New York.

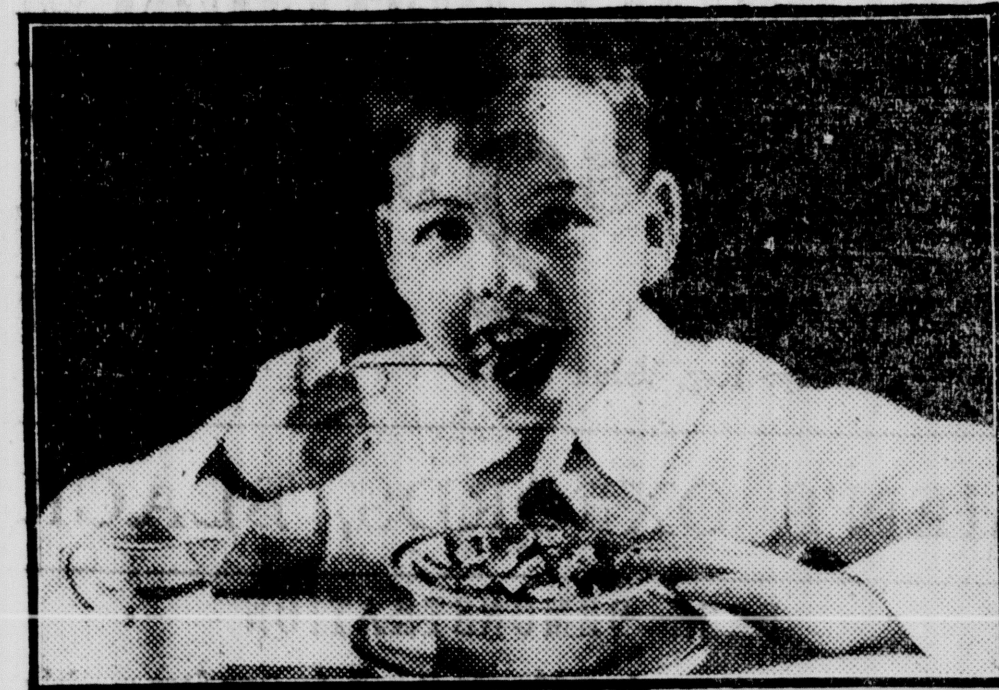

Advertising is one of the biggest reasons why so many women are so charming

Dorothy Mac Scott Hostess To Her Friends

Dorothy Mac Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Scott, of 802 Jefferson avenue, celebrated her fifth birthday anniversary yesterday afternoon from two until six o'clock by entertaining a number of little friends.
The tots enjoyed many games, and prizes were awarded to the following: Norma Hogarth, first prize in donkey game, with "Dolly" Smith a close second; Helen Monahan, "hooley" prize in donkey game; Jacky Moss, prize for "Lucky Lindbergh" game, and in a similar game for girls the hostess received the prize; Norma Hogarth, first prize in the peanut game.
Decorations of red, white and blue crepe paper streamers reaching from the chandelier to the walls added to the appearance of the room. Late in the afternoon the little hostess and her guests enjoyed all kinds of refreshments including two birthday cakes, each topped by five candles.
Mrs. Robert Moss and Mrs. Herbert Stevens very kindly took charge of the festivities owing to the inability of Dorothy's mother, who had sprained her ankle earlier in the day.
Those present: Vivian Smith, Helen Sharkey, Mary Williams, Katherine West, Helen Monahan, Marian, Norma and "Billy" Hogarth, Robert, Jacky and Albert Moss, Wanda, Eleanor, Herbert and Betty Stevens, Roland McGlynn, Isabelle Margerum, Margaret and Anna Carroll, Jimmy and Donald Boyle.
Dorothy was the recipient of many pretty presents and birthday cards.

Dempsey Ready To Fight, September 22nd

By Sid Mercer

I. N. S. Special Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—The rumor that Jack Dempsey was balking on fighting again this year was dispelled suddenly late yesterday afternoon when the former champion wired from Los Angeles that he would be ready to face Gene Tunney again on the night of Sept. 22 in the Soldiers' Memorial Stadium, Chicago.

Rickard had stated previously that Dempsey had asked for as much time as possible in order to get himself into the best possible condition for Tunney and suggested the week of Sept. 26. This, the promoter told him, was out of the question inasmuch as there was a possibility of weather postponements that might bring the fight into conflict with the World's Series in the event the Cubs win the National League pennant. The series is scheduled to start the first week in October.

Tex had expected a decision late last night after telling Leo Flynn to get in touch with Dempsey by telephone. The telegram was handed to him when he returned late in the afternoon from a downtown meeting of the Madison Square Garden Corporation directors.

Dempsey wired acceptance of the Sept. 22 date and added that he would leave Los Angeles on August 15 for Chicago. Flynn leaves early next week to select a training camp near that city. A dispatch from Chicago last night states that Dempsey has engaged a bungalow on the roof of a Chicago skyscraper in the downtown district where Mrs. Dempsey will reside while Jack is in training.

The Illinois Boxing Commission has stipulated that both boxers must locate their training camps in Illinois and be on the ground at least three weeks before the fight. Dempsey will camp near Chicago a month in advance.

to acclimate himself and to give Flynn, who trained him for the Sharkey fight, time to work out certain plans for his second battle with the ex-Marine.

"I understand Tunney wants to stay in Speculator as long as possible," said his manager, "and probably he won't go West until the first of September. I am going to Chicago next week to inspect a number of training sites that have been offered."

Practically every county seat or summer resort within a hundred miles of Chicago has invited one or both fighters to accept its hospitality during the training period. The probabilities are that both men will choose a lake resort.
